FORTY-TWO YEARS OLD

NILES, ALAMEDA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 4, 1930

NUMBER 37

THREE-YEAR-OLD GIRL DROWNS IN CANYON CREEK LATE MONDAY

Artificial Respiration Fails To Revive Daisy Cugley

Tragic death marred the happiness of Labor Day picnickers at Brightside park in Niles Canyon when little three-year-old Daisy Cugley wandered away from the merry makers and was drowned in the creek running through the pass. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Cugley, of Berkeley.

The little girl was last seen playing with other tots about four o'clock Monday afternoon. A short time later she was missed by her parents, who thought she might have wandered onto the highway and been picked up by some passing motorist.

A call was sent to police in Pleasanton to be on the look out for her. Chief of Police Wm. T. Davis, Constable Albert Vervais, and Deputy Sheriffs Hugh Radbruch and L. E. Van Patten responded to the alarm. They went to the park, and upon arriving learned that the little girl had been found by Clarence Crane and E. Champion, both of Niles, in a deep pool in the creek.

She was rushed to a Pleasanton doctor's office where artificial respiration was applied for several hours without result.

As the death was clearly a case of accidental drowning, the body was released and removed to Berkeley Monday evening, according to Deputy Coroner Chas. Graham.

In order to give the cooling system proper care, once each week is not too often to completely drain the radiator and refill with fresh water.

Alameda County had the next to the highest increase in population, 130,976 of all California counties in the ten year period 1920 to 1930, according to a study of Bureau of the Census releases recently completed by California Taxpayers' association.

In percentage of population increase the county ranked twenty-fifth showing a 38 per cent increase, or an increase of from 344,177 in 1920 to 475,153 in 1930.

California, according to the study, showed an increase of 65.5 per cent in population, going from 3,426,861 in 1920 to 5,672,009 in 1930 or an increase of 2,245,148. The increase in population for the continental United States as a whole was but 16.1 per cent, total population in 1930 being 122,698,190 persons.

Two California counties showed population increases of over 100 per cent in the ten year period, Los Angeles and San Mateo, while fourteen counties, Los Angeles, San Mateo, Monterey, Orange, San Bernardino, San Diego, Ventura, Del Norte, Riverside, Marin, Sacramento, Santa Barbara, Kern and Merced, showed increases in population of 50 per cent or over.

Rev. Elmer Brinkmeyer
Announces Rally
Day Here

Rev. Elmer C. Brinkmeyer, pastor of the Congregational church, Niles, has announced that Rally Day and Promotion Day, an annual event, will be held at 10 a. m., in the Sunday school rooms. All members and all those who do not attend services or school regularly are cordially invited to be present. Children entering school for the first time and others receiving promotion will meet their teachers; after which they will be assigned positions in the different units.

Opening of regular classes is very much like the opening of a grammar school term. Some children will receive honors for regular attendance and outstanding records of the past year. Work will be outlined and a permanent routine put into effect. Various features for the coming year's activities will be discussed and set forth for the spiritual education and guidance of the children.

In next week's issue of the Register names of the children winning honors on Rally Day will be given, and results of the annual rally reported.

Last year Miss Luna entered a spelling contest against other high school students here and a week later entered another at Hayward High school, which she won by default.

In the contest at Sacramento she competed with other high school students from twenty-one counties.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL OPENS WITH NORMAL NUMBER OF PUPILS ENROLLED

E. Dixon Bristow Gives
Report on Niles
Institution

FALL SESSION of the Niles Grammar school began Tuesday, Sept. 2, with a normal enrollment of pupils. E. Dixon Bristow, principal of the school, stated that more students were expected to enroll within the next few weeks, as many of them had not yet returned from vacations.

Bristow also said that trustees of the institution had authorized several new features and various improvements for the interior of the school buildings. New blackboards, filing cabinets and curtains were installed as part of the repair work done during the summer vacation.

At the present time the local school is in excellent condition, and rates among the best of its kind in the state. One of the attractive features for the children is the cafeteria, which is managed by the Parent-Teacher association. This enables children to have a hot meal at the noon hour instead of eating only a cold lunch.

Every possible convenience for the child is offered and in charge of a staff of teachers dependable, trustworthy, and well fitted to shoulder the great responsibility concurrent with training of young minds and bodies. Here programs for the days are carefully planned out. Certain periods of the time are allotted for play, study, and physical development. At all times children are under direct supervision of an adult; on the

EDITORIAL COMMENT

By NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

PUGDOM AT ITS WORST

LESS THAN a week apart two boxers have been killed—we might better say, legally murdered—in San Francisco. John Anderson, a lad of eighteen, was knocked out by Reinhart Keuhl, gathered up by friends and carried off to the hospital where he died shortly afterwards. Pugdom had hardly buried its dead, until Max Baer, another brute, hailing from Livermore, slugged his opponent into unconsciousness, and poked him another good one to clinch the victory. Then turning to the crowd he received the hurrahs of the admiring "Romans." Campbell, the bested gladiator, sank to the canvas floor in a pool of blood while the packed arena howled its appreciation. The man was taken in a police ambulance to St. Joseph's hospital where he lingered until early morning and then passed on, a sacrifice to a trait of savagery still very much alive in this vaunted age of twentieth century civilization.

Pugilism is a vulgar sport. Those who take it up as an occupation are coarse and brutal. They are generally the product of the underworld. Now and then one of these may erect between his true self and the outer world a thin veneer of culture, but put to the test the true brute in him comes to the surface.

Authorities talk about jailing Keuhl and Baer. The press, in many instances, is crying for punishment of the victors. Society, they insist, must be avenged.

But why?

Is this not a legal sport? Did not the people, by a referendum vote, approve this very thing? They did!

Two men are killed. What matter! Those who support prize fighting expect, and want, knock-outs. They want to see blood-run in rivulets from the faces and mangled bodies of the contestants. Otherwise too tame. Scientific boxing is not popular here or anywhere. Punishment is what the crowd craves—and if a man dies from the effects of that punishment, the price of the ticket is nearer value received.

*** **

The Township Register is opposed to boxing—professional boxing. It is opposed to brutality of the rodeo, as conducted for profit. But boxing is legal. It is also legal to abuse dumb brutes in bulldogging contests and other diversions of wild west exhibitions, annually an event throughout the state, the humane society to the contrary notwithstanding. It is legal to permit, we repeat—popular to encourage men, even girls, to risk their lives, and invite permanent disfigurement and often complete disability, by such sport; but the law allows it, the people applaud it.

Under such circumstances, we cannot approve the prosecution of Keuhl and Baer on a manslaughter charge. They were within the law. A very bad law, 'tis true, protects them, but it is the LAW.

*** **

We believe in changing that law. We believe in relegating to the past centuries the things of those centuries—burning black men at the stake, bull-fighting, bull-dogging and —PUGILISM!

THE CHARIOT OF GOLD

AS WE LOOK over the field of battle, (the smoke screen laid down by the host of candidates having lifted), we find many scarred shapes, that yesterday strutted proudly up and down the state in full realization of their political significance. The most pitiable sight is Young, who, having reached the highest office in California, utterly failed in statesmanship. While he was climbing the ladder of political preferment, he kept his ear close to earth, and got along very well. Having attained the governorship, and with it the attention of men and interests powerful in the state, he found this new company more pleasing than former friends, and the advice they volunteered carried more weight than the pleadings of honest men and wom-

Ralph Richmond, Jr., Niles, vs. Nori Nagai, Warm Springs.

Ned Witherly, Mission San Jose, vs. Eugene Dusterberry, Centerville.

IMPERIAL SODAS DEFEATED SUNDAY IN ALVARADO TILT

Leslie Salts played a very close game with the Imperial Sodas at Alvarado, Sunday. The score, which was 2-1 in favor of the Salts, and the time of the game, one hour and forty-five minutes illustrates the type of baseball which was being played by both teams.

In the ninth inning with the bags loaded and no outs, Perry center fielder made a remarkable catch and throw, putting a man out at home plate. Silva managed to keep the game in the Salts favor by fanning the third man and ending a thrilling game.

The team will meet the Clarence Saunders Stores next Sunday at Alvarado.

FURTHER PLANS OF RADIO-TELEPHONE SEA SERVICE

San Francisco May Be
Base for Calls
In America

Further details of the American Telephone and Telegraph company's plan for radio telephone service across the Pacific indicate that the American end of the new radio channel will be near San Francisco.

San Francisco to Sydney 6272 miles; to Tokyo, 4472 miles; to Manila 6047 miles; and to Honolulu 2079 miles are some of the proposed circuits outlined in a report received today by Manager Humpert of The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. Trans-Pacific calls from the Pacific Coast will pass over the Pacific Company's wires to the radio station.

The report indicates also that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company will establish radio telephone service from ship-to-shore for both trans-Pacific and Coastwise vessels, and that probably a shore station for this communication will be set up on the Pacific Coast at an early date. Four vessels on the Atlantic now have this service, the Leviathan, Majestic, Olympic, and Homeric.

A telephone call around the world, covering 21,475 miles, over regular commercial circuits, will be possible when the San Francisco-Sydney channel is completed, together with the London-Sydney circuit now being built by the British and Australian Post offices.

To increase telephone connections so that ultimately any telephone subscriber may be able to talk with any part of the civilized world, is the aim of the Bell System, says Manager Humpert. A world map of radio telephone channels now existing or under construction, or projected, accompanies the report and reveals a remarkable world network of channels.

Three base hits were made by Searles.

Two base hits were made by Perry, Whetzler.

Errors by Correia, Rose and Arsdale.

Silva struck out ten, and Whetzler six.

Miss Genevieve Da Villa, Mrs. Clarence Flores, Mrs. Frank Roderick and the Misses Mayme and Madeline Avila spent Sunday at the Mission Garden Golf course in San Leandro.

Colder days are coming. So plan now to have convenient warmth and comfort.

With modern gas-fired heating equipment, your finger's touch controls the heat. You make no trips to the basement on cold mornings. You build no fires. Mother does not tend the furnace when father is away.

And gas is a clean fuel. All burnt gases go outdoors through the chimney without mingling with the pure, warm air in your home.

As a result, your furniture, upholstery, and curtains stay clean. The exterior of your home does not need repainting so often.

Come into our office or a dealer's store and see the Furnaces and Boilers for heating the entire home. There are also Floor Furnaces and Circulating Room Heaters for homes having no basement and Radiantfires for the fireplace. Just telephone and a competent heating specialist will call and gladly discuss the heating of your particular home.

Elodia Muzzi, of Alameda, was found guilty of speeding and fined the sum of fifteen dollars. Charges were placed by George Barron, arresting officer.

The last case reported was that of Paul A. Wiley, of Oakland, who was charged with speeding by officer Barron, and fined ten dollars by Judge Silva.

FIREMEN CALLED OUT MONDAY TO SAVE AUTOMOBILE

Monday night an automobile belonging to Leon Crapuchettes, a local business man, caught on fire and the two Centerville fire department trucks were called out to render aid. Due to gasoline and oil in the car all attempts to stop the blaze were practically useless, and the car was completely destroyed.

At the time of the fire the car was parked near Mr. Crapuchettes' house, and he reported that the blaze was of mysterious origin. One theory is that a defective battery connection was the cause.

"Although the people of the east whom I met were most hospitable, and aided greatly in making my trip a complete success, I was very glad to return home, for nowhere else did I find anything to compare with Washington town-ship or the people in it."

Water Wagon Era Passing From County Highways Is Claim

County Surveyor Posey Tells of Improvements Made in Roads

That the day of the water wagon passing is the announcement made this week by County Surveyor George E. Posey. The dust-alloying sprinklers so frequently to be met with as the boon of travelers of the past are doomed to disappear from the roads of Alameda county. Already, their number is greatly diminished, while the roadside tanks that were their source of supply are being dismantled and sold by the purchasing agent as "articles of no further use to the county."

This change has marked the progress of an extensive program of road improvement, launched three years ago. The program calls for the oil surfacing of the hundreds of miles of county roads which heretofore were merely unsurfaced dirt roads or at best, surfaced only with gravel.

Since the work has begun, the mileage of oil-top roads has been increased from six to 128 miles, according to a report which Posey has just compiled. The amount of dirt and gravel roads has been reduced accordingly.

This report shows that in January, 1927, there were 480 miles of roads under county maintenance. These included 65 miles of concrete and asphaltic concrete, six miles of oiled-top, 93 miles of dirt roads and 316 miles of gravelled roads.

Subsequently, the board of Supervisors designated a large additional mileage of roads as county highways, so that the present mileage maintained under Posey's direction is nearly 600 miles, divided into 67 miles of concrete and asphaltic concrete, 128 miles of oiled-top, 287 miles of gravelled surface, and the balance good graded highway.

The rendering dust proof by oiling of 122 miles of old roads during the period of three years has proved a three-fold benefit, according to Posey. Motoring conditions have improved, farmers have found a better market for their dust-free products, while the official purse of the county is enjoying, what in time, will amount to an enormous saving.

With respect to motoring, highway experts estimate that wear and tear on automobiles and tires is nearly 44 percent less on oiled-top than on dirt or gravelled roads.

In the past, the heavy clouds of dust which were raised by traffic on the dirt roads and which settled on the surrounding fields were a source of real loss to orchardists, truck gardeners and vineyardists. Their crops, dust covered, could not compete with the clean produce from districts which did not suffer from this annoyance. But with the installation of oiled-top roads the marketableness of these crops has greatly increased.

The oiling program is one of real economy for the county as well. The actual cost per mile of oiling a gravelled road has been only slightly more than the recurring yearly cost of maintaining the old roads, while the cost of maintenance of the roads that have been oiled has been reduced by 90 percent, according to Posey.

HIGH SCHOOL HAS ATTENDANCE OF 107 DURING FIRST WEEK

Vacations, Work Believed To Be Keeping Students Out of School

Enrollment at the Amador Valley Union High School was smaller this year than for many semesters in the past, Principal R. O. Moyer stated this week. The entire enrollment was listed as 107. It is believed, however, that the attendance will increase during the next few weeks as several of the students are away working, while others are still away on vacations.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BANDS, ORCHESTRAS TO BE RE-ORGANIZED

Re-organization of the school bands and orchestras along very promising lines was announced this week by Harry Tripp, music director of the public schools of Pleasanton. The band was said to be strong in practically every department except one, and Tripp has hopes of building this section up before the first engagement.

The orchestra is giving promise of being even stronger than last year, Tripp pointed out. There is a shortage of flutes and violins however, he stated.

The Glee Club this year will be of mixed voices, instead of a boys and girls group. This will be due to a shortage of boys, it was said.

Boulevarding of Santa Rita-Mission San Jose Highway Is Ordered By Supervisors

Erection of Pleasanton Stop Signs Is Now Assured

The advisory board at Pleasanton is composed of the following in addition to Chairman Arendt: Chas. A. Gale, Dr. J. Hal Cope, Claude Smallwood, T. H. Silver, and F. E. Hartzell.

The campaign which will bring to Pleasanton a modern hospital will get underway immediately as the committees selected last night begin to function. Plans were formulated for the carrying on of an intensive drive, and all members of the board have expressed themselves as being thoroughly convinced that the drive will be successful and that the community hospital which has long been talked of, will become an actuality for Pleasanton.

When the announcement was made by Posey, his talk was interrupted by an outburst of applause from the Lions, who had figured there was still a battle ahead in order to make this project possible. They felt that way for the reason that the city council had been trying for seven years to have that very action taken, and without success.

Much credit for the action taken by the supervisors must be given to Ralph Richmond, supervisor in this district. Richmond was highly indignant with The Pleasanton Times several weeks ago when that newspaper came out with the true statement of facts that the supervisors refused to comply with the Lions club's request, and this paper was accused of "riding" Richmond.

Such was not the case, as that paper has a high regard for Supervisor Richmond and all the good work he has accomplished for the district he represents. Richmond is but one member of the board, however, and cannot say just what shall and shall not be done. The news story printed in The Times was directed at the board and not at Supervisor Richmond, but it did call the attention of the board most strongly to the fact and it feels it helped the Lions club and Supervisor Richmond to bring the matter to a head with the board.

Roy Emerson, of San Jose, who has charge of the campaign to finance the Three Link Hospital for Pleasanton, was another speaker of the evening. He briefly outlined the work and answered such questions as the members wished to ask.

Tickets for All Points Purchased At Niles Depot

Advantages of Making Arrangements Here Are Pointed Out

Extension of the principle of "home patronage" to the purchase of railroad transportation, as a boon not merely to patrons but to the community as well, was urged here today by Harvey Braun, local agent for Southern Pacific company.

Residents of Niles not only will have their own travel plans facilitated through local purchase of tickets to and from distant points, Braun pointed out, but will further the advancement of their city through the stimulation of business that naturally follows the "spending of money at home."

Pointing out that many persons contemplating long journeys labor under the mistaken assumption that round-trip tickets must be bought, or can be more economically bought, in neighboring metropolitan centers, the agent declared that railroad transportation for anywhere in the country can be purchased locally.

That the buying of such transportation locally means much to the buyer, Braun said, "is a matter for serious thought."

"Southern Pacific company maintains a passenger ticket office here," he declared, "but like every other business operated in an efficient manner, it expects this office to be patronized. That is what it is here for, and if it is patronized by all who travel out of this community it will become an actually thriving business."

"All monies paid in here are handled through our local banks, and thus our bank clearings are stimulated. When business warrants it, additional employment is afforded local citizens, improvements are made in company property, better facilities are made possible by the railroad and other good results follow as a matter of course. Thus we feel that local purchase of tickets becomes a matter of community interest and pride."

Braun pointed out that local purchase of tickets facilitates the handling of baggage for the traveler, avoiding changes and annoyances at larger terminals.

Old Farm Machinery Is Sent To Eastern Museum

Pleasanton is now represented in Henry Ford's museum at Dearborn, Michigan, H. P. Mohr having shipped east four old time pieces of ranch machinery, two binders, a reaper and a corn planter.

All of the items were in perfect working order and could, if necessary have been put to work, Mohr stated. They were said to be the only ones of their kind in existence. The combined ages of the four machines is 218 years.

The oldest of the machines was a Champion Combination Mower and Reaper. It was built in 1872. The next was a Vandevere Corn Planter made in 1874. The oldest of the binders was a Walter Wood Wire Binder, constructed in 1874; and the same make of binder but using twine instead of wire, was the other, built in 1880.

Mohr stated this week that he also has another piece of old-time machinery on his ranch and this also in perfect working order.

It is a Spencer Horse Power Thresher. It requires fifteen horses to operate this thresher, he stated. It was built in 1857, making it 73 years old.

All of this machinery was used by either Mohr or his father in conducting their ranch, it was revealed.

When grinding the valves, always examine the seats carefully for cracks. If the seats are cracked, motor performance will be impaired. However if the crack is slight, your mechanic can ream it out and install a new valve seat. The cost is not excessive, and the job leaves the motor as good as new.

The present type of high compression motor requires a maximum of efficiency from spark plugs. Drivers will do well to check the plugs a regular interval, removing carbon and setting points.

Lost People Told
How to Conduct Themselves

A clear head will find itself. If everyone remembered this, there would be fewer reports of persons lost in the mountains and forests, according to U. S. Forest Service rangers.

"Finding oneself when lost is the test of a man," says a veteran of the Forest Service who has seen men, women and even children save themselves by sheer pluck and presence of mind. Loss of mental control is more serious than the lack of food, water, clothing or possible proximity of wild animals. The man who keeps his head has the best chance to come through in safety.

The following rules are worth remembering:

1. Stop, sit down and try to figure out where you are. Use your head, not your legs.
2. If caught by night, fog or a storm, stop at once and make camp in a sheltered spot. Build a fire in a safe place. Gather plenty of dry fuel.

3. Don't wander about. Travel only down hill.
5. If injured, choose a clear spot on a promontory and make a signal smoke.

5. Don't yell, don't run, don't worry, and above all don't quit.

If caught out toward nightfall, the traveler is urged to find a shelter quickly, a ledge, a large boulder or a fallen tree, clear a space of ground and build a fire. If without a blanket, he may build his fire in a deep hole, cover six inches of hot coals with six inches of earth and sleep on this. Failing fire, one should use leaves and branches to shelter himself as best he can. A boy lost on a southern California mountain peak this summer spent three nights safely in this manner.

Leo J. Mahoney Traveling
East for Alameda County

Leo J. Mahoney, secretary of James Houlihan, Inc., the advertising agency appointed by the Board of Supervisors to create and place the 1930 Alameda county advertising campaign, departed last night on a nation-wide tour which will take the form of a national survey upon which he will base his annual report to the Board of Supervisors, Alameda County Development Commission, and advertising committee representing the chambers of commerce of the county.

On the eve of his departure, Mahoney appeared before the Board of Supervisors and formally presented the trophy and certificate of award won by the Alameda county advertising campaign at the Pacific Advertising Clubs Association convention held in Spokane. The Alameda County campaign was awarded the prize for the best community campaign costing under $150,000. The competition included the entire Pacific Coast region and the Hawaiian Islands.

"Alameda county is indeed fortunate in having Mr. Mahoney make this extensive tour at this time," said Supervisor Ralph V. Richmond, when Mahoney announced his itinerary to the Board. "I am confident his presence in various eastern and middle western cities will be of benefit to the community and it goes without saying that his contact with public officials, industrial leaders, and representatives of chambers of commerce throughout the country will give him an insight into national conditions that will be reflected in the advertising copy prepared for this community under the personal supervision of the Board of Supervisors."

While in New York City Mahoney is booked to speak before several service clubs and his subject will be "Alameda County." He will tell easterners of the industries located here; of the rich agricultural district in the southern part of the county; of the great development of the community, including such projects as the Posey Tube, Inner Harbor development, network of perfect highways, our airports, and the Mokelumne River project; of the great educational institutions—University of California and Mills College, St. Mary's College, University of Santa Clara and Stanford University at our door, of the numerous well equipped high schools and the excellent system of grammar schools that provide for the children of Alameda county educational facilities second to none found anywhere in the world.

Boston will be included in the local advertising man's itinerary. He will also visit Buffalo, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. He intends to spend several days in Detroit and is scheduled for a stay in Chicago where he will make a study of conditions throughout Greater Chicago, personally visiting chambers of commerce executives and public officials. Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Omaha and Kansas City also will be visited by Mahoney before he returns to Oakland.

After spending several weeks in the east and middle west, he will return with accurate knowledge of conditions as they now exist, which will be of inestimable value to him in the performance of his duties as advertising executive under the Board of Supervisors.

Centerville—Extensive improvements being made on Hansen tract, including laying of sidewalks at cost of approximately $3,000.

Fortuna—Work started on construction of new grammar school building here.

The Fun of Vegetable Gardening

By CAROLINE B. KING

THE man or woman who has never pulled a scarlet radish from his own garden patch or eaten a vivid sun-warmed tomato from his own vines, or munched an ear of green corn pulled from his own corn stalks while the water for its cooking was bubbling merrily on the kitchen range has missed one of life's most delicious thrills.

Making a garden, growing the green things for one's table, harvesting the cabbages, storing the squash and turnips and digging the potatoes—every step in gardening is filled with a glorious excitement from the moment the first faint green leaf appears above the soil until the last green tomato has been transformed into translucent, tender spicy pickles.

It is amazing the results one may obtain—one packet of tomato seed will furnish enough plants to supply a whole family with even some for canning; a carton of corn seed will give the family special treats for several weeks; a paper of radish seed will be ample to provide the family and some of the neighbors many crisp, piquant radishes; a little lettuce seed will plant a row 100 feet long, and so one might go on and on. A few dimes spent in buying good vegetable seeds, a few hours spent in planting and caring for the garden and one is generously repaid both in better health and better meals.

When the crop is harvested one will want to know just how to cook the delicious vegetables so that they may be enjoyed at their very best. So here are several recipes that are tried and true; also unusual and good:—

Baked Corn and Tomatoes: Arrange sliced, peeled tomatoes and corn cut from the cob in layers in a buttered baking dish, adding a little finely chopped onion. Season with salt and pepper, dot generously with butter and cover the dish with soft bread crumbs. Bake about thirty minutes in a fairly hot oven.

Steamed Squash Au Gratin: Cut the squash in small pieces and steam until very tender, then peel and cut in cubes. Make a good white sauce and arrange the squash in layers in a buttered baking dish, alternating with the white sauce. Sprinkle each layer lightly with grated cheese and top the dish with bread crumbs, dot with butter and bake a delicate brown.

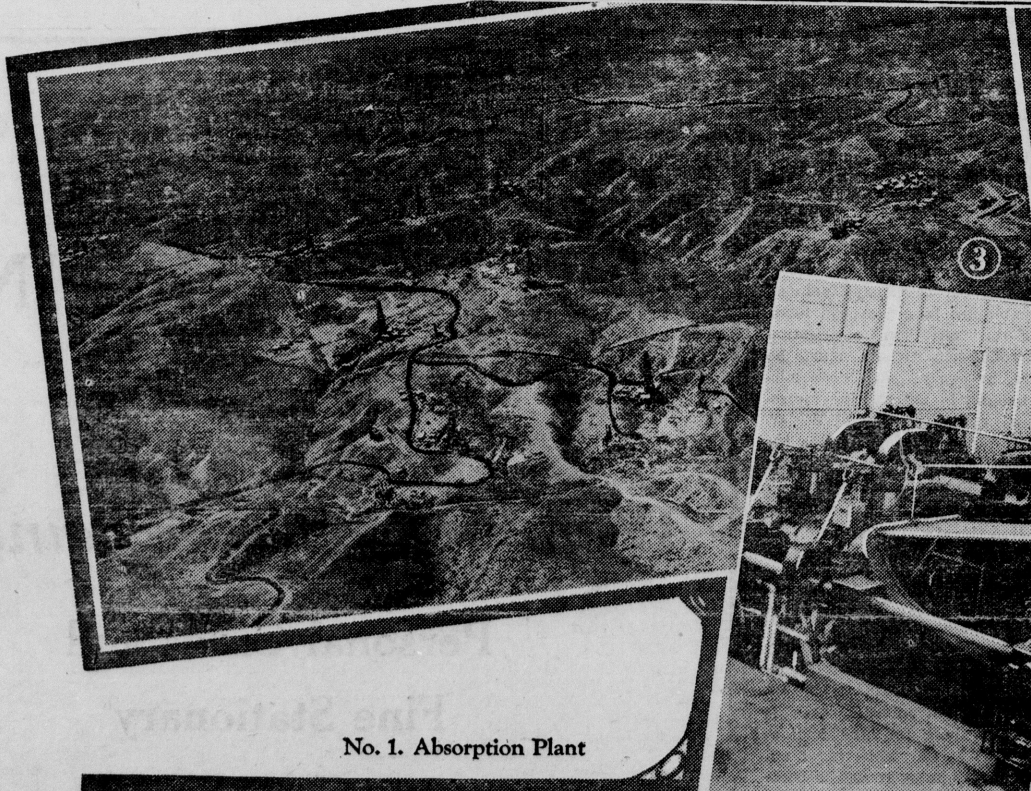

Creamed Radishes: Wash well large white radishes, but do not peel, cut into quarters and cook in very little boiling salted water. Drain and pour over a rich white sauce, sprinkle with paprika and serve hot.

Shopkeeper Invites Patrons Through Advertising Pages

In almost every community there are two or more places where a similar or like product can be purchased. That is why we find the various types of retail stores doing business in our cities. Some of these stores grow rapidly, while others barely hold their own, and if we search for a reason why one goes ahead and the other does not, we can usually detect a lack of appreciation for the buying public on the part of the latter merchant.

Your Dollar

To see just how this works let us say, for example, that we buy a couple of suits or dresses each year. We would like to buy more, but the demands of the present day make it necessary that our income be divided most carefully for the purchase of a large number of other things we need or want. So when we set out to spend our money, we naturally wish to get the greatest value for each dollar which we have to spend.

Our Dollar

Even though we have less to spend than our neighbor, all of us are subject to flattery. We like to feel that such purchases as we make are appreciated; we like to be assured that our business is wanted. We like to be invited to buy; we like to feel that our merchant extends to us an invitation to look over his merchandise and make our selections from his stock.

Advertising

Advertising on the part of the merchant is evidence to us that he invites and requests us to come into his place of business to see if we cannot supply our wants and needs from the various items of merchandise he carries.

Business Invited

Business goes where it is wanted, and in this respect it is no different from individuals themselves. Advertising is a very definite and distinct way of telling us that the merchant invites us into his store. Lack of advertising is an inference that the merchant does not care, but is content to wait for business, or that he is satisfied with the business obtained. This is the chief reason why some organizations grow faster than others—they invite the public, through advertising, to do business with them. If you do not evidence a desire for business, it will go elsewhere.

Does "Everybody" Know Your Store?

FREDERICK W. BRIDGES, advertising manager of the Hamilton (Bermuda) Royal Gazette & Colonist Daily, says:

That ADVERTISING PAYS YOU, MR. SMALL-TOWN-MERCHANT, in as great proportion as the national advertiser, if conducted in a rational and business-like manner. It is a too-common attitude on the part of the small town storekeeper that everybody knows his store, is familiar with what he sells, and that his regular customers will buy from him regardless of what the other man is offering. There seems, therefore, to be no need to advertise.

There Is Nothing "Regular" About Public's Buying

That this idea is based on a shaky foundation is obvious to the person who stops to think, for it predicates "regular customers," and experience in all towns, large and small, has proved over and over again that there is nothing regular about the buying public. All human beings are creatures of impulse to a greater or lesser degree, and any one thing, it may be better service, or even the fact that a competitor knows the value of a smile at the time, may change YOUR regular into HIS; in short, there is but a hair-line distinction between the status of "regular" and "casual" customer, and the conversion of the latter into the former depends almost entirely on the use of advertising.

What can you offer that is better than your competitor's? Is it Courtesy? Advertise it! Is it a lower price on a staple article, due to careful buying? Advertise it! Is it a feature line which you handle exclusively? Advertise it! Is your store handy to car-stops? Advertise it! Every day you have something which can beat, or is at least as good as the other fellow's, be it quality, price, service, courtesy, or what-have-you? Something has brought you your "regulars," but how many more can be brought in? Advertising will show you!

Your store is part of the community. How much of the community is part of your store? Unless there is a link between them your business may be average, but try the best link, advertising, and watch the results! Any special inducement you can offer is but the thin edge of the wedge, for every customer who comes in for your advertised line is a prospect for something you carry, and, once sold on your goods and your store will send his friends along.

BUT, IT ISN'T GOOD ENOUGH TO GET CUSTOMERS—YOU'VE GOT TO KEEP 'EM COMING, AND THE SUREST WAY IS TO ADVERTISE CONTINUOUSLY, AND ADVERTISE INTELLIGENTLY.

Have you ever seen a feijoa, a cherimoya or a loquat? Do you know that Monterey county grows rubber plants? And San Diego county pineapples? Have you ever gazed on a horse that weighs a ton and a half? And a pony that stands eighteen inches high?

Did you ever pick up a handful of solid gold nuggets? Do you know what a Red Carneau is?

Have you ever witnessed a steeplechase?

Those queries give but a faint idea of the diversified character of the California State Fair which opened in Sacramento August 30, and continues for nine days.

California, the wonder state, will pour out a record-breaking display from her Horn of Plenty at this year's exposition which celebrates her 80th birthday.

An amazing horticultural and agricultural showing will bear evidence of the Golden State's supremacy in soil products, a distinction which California attained last year by wresting the title from Texas. No other state in the Union," said R. A. Condee, presi-en who, through him, hoped to see California wisely and impartially governed.

Through intimate contact with immense wealth, and surfeited by social favors shown him and his most estimable family, Young lost contact with the man in the street. It was not strange, then, that he embraced, gradually at first, and then eventually completely accepted as his dogma the theory that the classes are meant to rule, and by right to govern—are entitled to especial consideration by grace of blood or birth. His changed attitude was reflected in tax legislation sponsored by his administration. The larger corporations were virtually relieved of taxation, while that burden formerly carried by them was shifted to the shoulders of the very men and women who had made Young all that he was. But while they had made him, they, also, under democratic form of government, could unmake him. And this they did.

The defeat of the incumbent governor is attributed not only to the foregoing deductions—which any one conversant with state politics knows to be true—but also in not a small measure to Young's decided lack of appreciation for what friends had done for him, and lack of loyalty to the ideals under which banner past adherents had fought that he might attain control of the state government.

Young's attitude toward the Mooney case lost him respect, and thousands of votes, not only among those who believed this famous inmate of San Quentin to be innocent, but those who believed him guilty of that diabolic murder of ten innocent people watching the Preparedness Day parade in San Francisco some fourteen years ago. He lacked courage to meet the issue. He has lacked courage to meet any issue except an issue meant to protect interests needing no protection.

So passes from the political stage of California a sad figure, and with him into oblivion also will descend Will C. Wood, superintendent of banks—the link that bound the governor to the chariot of gold.

"These and other attractions will fill the twelve huge exposition structures at the State Fair grounds—a show conservatively valued at twenty million dollars.
